WEST POINT'S NEW MONUMENT.

A MEMORIAL OF THE OFFICERS AND MEN WHO DIED IN THE CIVIL WAR,

The Battle Monument to be erected on the plain at Trophy Point, West Point, will be commemorative of the officers, non-commissioned officers and privates of the regular army of the United States who were killed or who died of wounds received in action during the War of the Rebellion. The action during the War of the Bebellion. The funds available for the construction proper are $50,000 in each. There are also at the disposal of the Battle Monument Association fifty bronze cannon which may be employed in any way deemed proper, presented for the purpose by a joint resolution of Congress, approved April 28, 1870.

The design of Mosers, McKim, Mead & White, of New York, was accepted some time ago. The monument is to be a martial one, distinct in its character and impressive in its design. The beauty of its site and the surroundings seemed to the successful architects (so they state) to preclude any bulky or massive treatment, and suggested rather a treatment where the impression should be produced by height supported by a base which should not interfere with graceful and artistic treatment. They, therefore, adopted as the feature of their design a single monolithic shaft, treated in the shape of a memorial column or column of victory. In this form it is possible to obtain impressiveness and dignity without a sucrifice of grace, at the same time preserving a distinctively architectural and monumental character. The shaft is to be a monolith of polished Vermont grante forty-six feet high and five feet six inches in diameter, probably the largest polished shaft in the world.

It is proposed to surmount it with a figure of Victory, and surround it by eagles—a distinct mark of its national character. The shaft will rest upon a circular base surrounded by flights of steps, giving the greatest breath and dignity possible to the base.

ing the greatest breath and dignity possible to the base.

The materials are granite and bronze. It should be understood, however, that the successful design is to undergo some modifications in the details of its decorative features, as well as in the relative proportions of its base and shaft.

It is hoped that the monument will be completed during the ensuing summer. The building committee for its construction consists of the following named officers of the Military Academy:—Colonel John M. Wilson, superintendent: Professor Peter S. Michie, chairman: Professor Charles W. Larned, Professor Edward W. Bass, treasurer, and Professor James Marour.

The gentlemen who acted as associates for the purpose of choice of a design were Mr. Richard M. Hunt, president of the American Institute of Architects; Augustus St. Gaudons, and Arthur Rotch.

WITH SOLEMN HIGH MASS.

DISTINGUISHED PRELATES AND THRONGS OF MOURNESS ATTEND ABBOT ZILLIO'S FUNERAL. The funeral of the Right Rev. Jacob M. Zillio, D. D., O. S. B., took place yesterday morning from St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church, Newark. The body was dressed in full white and gold pontificate, with mitre on the head, and reposed in a casket in the centre aisle, in front of the main alter.

The office of the dead was first read by the Right Rev. Bishop Wigger, assisted by the Rev. Archabbot Andrew Hinternach, of St. Vincent's Abbey; Right Rev. Abbot Hilliary, of St. Mary's Abbey; Right Rev. Mgr. Doane, and sixty priests. An hour later a solemn high mass of requiem was sung by the Right Rev. Bishop Wigger, with Rev. Father Stecker, of St. Peter's Church; the prior of St. Mary's Abbey, Rev. Father Daudienbach, of College Point, N. Y., and other assisting. The masters of ceremonies were the Rev. Fathers Ernst and Bernard. Franciscans, Capuchins, Dominicats, Benedictines and other priests from all the Newark churches occupied pews. The officiating clergymen wore black robes and white stoles. During the elevation of the Host each priest held a lighted candle.

Many persons were unable to gain admission to the church owing to the crowd that completely filled the edifice almost as soon as the doors were thrown open. The sermon was preached in German by the Rev. Father Maurice Kester, of St. Vincent's, Westmoreland county, Pa. The pallbearers, six in number, were selected from the societies connected with St. Mary's Church. The interment took place at the Cemetery of the Holy Sepuichre. Rev. GENERAL SPINNER'S FUNERAL,

THE BODY OF THE EX-TREASURER TO BE BURIED IN MOHAWK TO-DAY.

The body of General Francis E. Spinner, ex-Treasurer of the United States, who died at Jacksonville, Fla., on December 31, arrived in Jersey City by the Pennsylvania Bailroad at a quarter past six P. M. yesterday. The body was brought across to New York in a hearse and conveyed to the Jay street station of the West Shore Railroad. At a quarter past eight P. M. the body started for Mohawk, N. Y., where the funeral will be held today.

The escort consisted of General Spinner's son-inlaw, James M. Schumacher, president of the First National Bank of Florids, at whose house in Jacksonville the General died; Assistant United States Treasurer J. W. Whelpley, and ex-Assistant United States Treasurer L. R. Tuttle, who served under Treasurer Spinner from 1821 to 1875.

General Spinner died from a cancer caused two years ago by the abrasion of his nose by the spectacles he wore. The cancer finally penetrated his brain. He would have been eighty-pine years oid on January 21. The only survivor of his family is his daughter Josephine, now Mrs. James M.
Schumacher.

Two months ago, realizing that his end was approaching, General Spinner wrote to Cashier H. D.
Alexander, of the National Mohawk Valley Bank, of which General Spinner was formerly president, asking him to make the necessary arrangements for his funeral and burial in the family plot. The escort consisted of General Spinner's son-in-

TURKS SEIZED TREASURES.

ANNOYING EXPERIENCES OF THE UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA'S EXPEDITION.

The expedition of the University of Pennsylvania is having much difficulty in bringing home trophies from the temple of Bel.

In the summer of 1888 Professor John Peters, of the University of Pennsylvania, sailed from New York to make explorations in and about Babylon. Doctor Peters is the son of the Rev. Doctor Peters, of the Protestant Episcopal Church in Har-lem. He was accompanied by Professor Robert F. Harper, of Yale College; Professor Hilprecht, Mr. Percy Field and Mr. Prince, a graduate of Columbia, interested in archmological research.

The expedition was at first very successful and the reports sent home were full of promise. Last month, however, Dr. John Peters and his party arrived in New York quietly, without any of the curios which they had been successful in unearthing. The Ottoman Porte had seized them all, and weary with negotiating with the Turkish Custom House officials and sending in petitions and complaints to the Sultan, which were simply "showed under the Divan," as the expression is in Stamboul, the party returned to America and placed their case in the hands of Secretary Blaine. The success of the State Department and the United States Minister in Constantinople in hurrying matters up must have been simply phenomenal, for several of the archaic treasures found in the Temple of Bel have aiready arrived in Philadelphia and the remainder are supposed to be on the way.

I called at the residence of the Rev. Dr. Peters last night, at 10 ist street and the Boulevard, but found that Dr. John Peters had returned to Philadelphia. A member of his family said:—

"We have every reason to believe that the last of the artistic treasures discovered by the expedition will shortly reach this country, so it would be ungracious to speak of the manner in which several months ago they were selzed and conflacated by the Turks as contraband. The expedition experienced great hardships and some very rough treatment, but if their spoils turn up soon in good shape it will be a case of 'all's well that onds well."

In a letter received in New York a few days ago from a member of the expedition ight is shed upon the dangers and hardships of collecting art treasures in the dominions of the Ottoma Porte.

"Professor Peters," the letter reads, "has left for Europe with a great many antiquities and precious objects which had been transported by the kind assistance of Mr. Althans, who, by reason of our intrigues with the Arabs, succeeded in the transportation across the desert of fitteen large cases of rare antiquities, which feat greatly pleased Professor Peters, and he left us contented, as it was not possible for any person else, even under taking. Dani month, however, Dr. John Peters and his party ar rived in New York quietly, without any of the curies which they had been successful in unearth-

CHICKEN FOR DINNER TO-DAY

AN AUDACIOUS YOUNG THIEF HELPS HIMSELP WHILE SCORES OF PEOPLE LOOK ON.

A boy fourteen years old, who had, probably, seen Christmas pass without a turkey and New Year's Day go by lacking a goose, decided yesterday that he would have a good Sunday dinner, any-how. A wagon with a heavy load of poultry packed in a big orate, as sardines are pressed into a box, was passing along Washington street, near Park was passing along Washington street, near Park place.

The boy ran after the cart and, pushing both of his hands through the bars, he seized two of the largest chickens by the throats. It is probable that not a few in that crate could have squeezed its way to freedom unaided, but with the lad's assistance, the two birds he had selected were on the outside of the cage in far less time than it takes to tell the story.

The young thief fied along Washington street, swinging the chickens around his head and artistically wringing their necks as he ran. The driver, occupied with his horse, saw nothing of the enemy in his rear. No policeman was in sight and the half hundred persons who witnessed the theft seemed rather disposed to admire its audacity than to interfere with its perpetrator. At all events, it was none of their business, and the boy escaped with his dinner. with his dinner.

MADISON AVENUE CAR ABUSES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD: Attention is called to the cars of Fourth and Madison avenues. This is one of the best, if not the best, patronized lines in the city, and certainly with the best class of passengers, yet the cars are the most amomfortable.

No attempt is made to heat them, and the tracks are not properly cleaued of snow. Last night in returning from church we were one hour going from Forty-third to Sixty-third street. Two cars filled with people were stalled on the curves between the Graud Central Depot and Madison avenue and Forty-fourth street. There were several stoppages on Madison avenue, and I think the poor horses were too exhausted to draw the car after being released. The passengers were almost frozen.

Every one I know who patronizes this route complains, yet no one seems to have spoken. Half the time the conductors do not close the doors. Cannot something be done? with the best class of passengers, yet the cars are

SIR SHILOH LOCKED UP.

PRINCESS. Sir Shiloh Gillis, a false and recreant Knight of the Order of Tabor, spent last night in a dungeon cell attached to the Yorkville Police Court, and this morning he will be subjected to the additional ignominy of being hauled up before Police Justice Ryan to answer a charge of abandonment brought against him by his loving but sorrowful spouse, the Princess Rachel Gillis, one of the bright particular stars of the Daughters of Tabor.

The Knights and Daughters of Tabor are offshoots of a colored organization known as the International Order of Twelve, which has its headquarters at St. Louis, and of which the Rev. Moses Diekson is the "International Chief Grand Mentor." virtue of the authority duly and lawfully vested in him, "Father" Dickson, as he is familiarly called by the members of his flock, made Shiloh Gillis a Knight and Deputy Grand Mentor something over a year ago and put him in charge of Pilot Rock Tabernacis, No. 406, at No. 137 West Thirty-second atrect, this city.

FASCINATED.

Sir Shiloh at once became a conspicuous object in the colored community. The tabernacle flour-ished exceedingly under his charge. He enrolled many recruits and scattered various degrees among them with a lavish hand. In one day he conferred three degrees on eighty dusky young women whom he made Daughters of Tabor, with the privilege of tacking on three or four initial letters to their names.

tacking on three or four initial letters to their names.

Among the members thus enrolled was Annie Scott, a damsel of varied charms in whose veins ran French and Indian blood. Sir Shiloh basked very much in the sunshine of Annie's smiles, while Mrs. Gillis, who had also become a Daughter of Tabor, suspected nothing.

Annie posed as an Indian princess at dime museums and thrilled her audiences by the facility with which she emitted blood curding war whoops and shot down redskins who sometimes had the temerity to pursue her. It is said that it was while shooting redskins she won Sir Shiloh's susceptible heart.

temerity to pursue her. It is said that it was while shooting redskins she won Sir Shiloh's susceptible heart.

But before matters had come to this pass Mrs. Gillis had worked her way up to the top notch among the Daughters of Tabor and had been made a "Princess" and an "International Grand Deputy" with "full power and authority to organize and set up Tabernacles of the Daughters of Tabor, Palatiums of the Royal House of siedia and Tents of Maids and Pages of Honor in any State or Territory of the United States of North America."

These honors did not make Sir Shiloh appreciate what a rare jewel he had in his wife, and one day a few weeks ago he eloped with the Indian Princess and ran off to Budalo. Mrs. Gillis pursued them, but didn't succeed in catching them. They returned to New York, and like Brer Rabbit laid low. Mrs. Gills visited all the dime unusums in town, but could not find any traces of the war whooping Indian Princess. But yesterday she found that they were living as man and wife at No. 70 East Houston street. She hired Mossers. Barnett & Cohen, Sixth avenue and Tenth street, to set the machinery of the law in motion. They did it so successfully and expeditionsly that by four o'clock Sir Shiloh was looked up.

BY POISON A VETERAN DIES.

AFTER URGING HIS WIFE AND SON TO COMMIT

SUICIDE JOHN BRIDGES ENDS HIS LIFE. John Bridges, a veteran of the late war, took a dose of laudanum on Friday afternoon with suicidal intent, and died early yesterday morning, at his residence, No. 1,521 Third avenue. He was fortytwo years old and a native of England.

He served during the war with the New Hampshire volunteers, and was wounded both at Bull's Run and Gettysburg. After hostilities were at an end he joined the Marine Corps. On leaving the government service he became shipping clerk with the Singer Sewing Machine Company. There he remained sixteen years. In 1888 he lost his remained sixteen years. In 1888 he lost his place, and next secured employment as steward on the Crinoco, of the Quebec line of steamships. He was discharged two weeks since for inebriety. Last Friday afternoon he informed his wife that he had been engaged as steward on the Savannah line. He was to have gone to work to-morrow.

He left his home at noon Friday, but returned at three P. M. He said to his wife, "Come and have a drink with me; you will never have another chance." "You know," she replied, "that I do not drink"

East Eighty-first street, but the suicide was beyond medical aid. The bottle was broken into such small pieces that the name of the druggist who sold Bridges the poison could not be learned.

When his wife entered the room after receiving the alarm from her son Bridges called for pen and ink. She brought them to him, but he was paralyzed and could not write. He told his wife that he was discouraged and wanted to die.

Mrs. Bridges said yesterday that she knew now that her husband wanted to poison her and their son as well as himself. He was a member of Phil Kearny Post, G. A. R. The body will be buried in Evergreens Cemetery.
